FROM ARKANSAS.

"Down in de cotton fields," far from the great city or the noisy town,

beyond the whistle of the locomotive

or the sight of a telegraph pole, and where you can't telephone a message to living soul, quite away from the roar of the street, the rude jostling

of crowds and the silly state of the dashing dude; deep hidden in the pine-woods where letters and papers are brought twelve long weary miles

by passing horseman or toiling wagon. Think of it, ye city people, who cannot do without your two or three

"dailies" and sometimes an "extra."

Well, I confess it is a little slow, but just how the change is novel and pleasing; from the window where I write can be seen the "old military road" that leads down through this state into Texas and on to the land of Santa Anna. I try to imagine how it all was then, thick, almost impenetrable forests, dark swamps

where the bear and panther prowled,

and those brave stout-hearted soldiers marching on to Mexico. How many went down in that strange land, never to return to happy homes in Tennessee or Kentucky. But this is not telling the "S. K." how I came to be so far from the Falls City on the blue Ohio. Yes, I am in the great state of Arkansas, boasting of flourishing cities, numerous railroads and an unlimited amount of enterprise. When I left Louisville, two weeks ago, the cars were covered with snow and the wind cut like a knife. One day's travel brought me down into the hill country of Tennessee, where I spent a week

most pleasantly with old friends, and yet the saddening touch of change

had been there too, so it was home

no longer.

March 27th I was again on the way, and over the bridges and across the rolling land of West Tennessee

the train swiftly carried me on to Memphis, not the Egyptian city of old, with classic temples and hideous

mummies, but its modern namesake

of commercial advantages and yellow fever fame, situated on the "muddy Mississippi." When the train was run into a huge ferry-boat, the sunset threw gleams of gold over the brood river, and lit up the gloomy shore on the Arkansas side. That first night ride through the swamps, shall I ever forget it? Now and then the light of the moon would break through the clouds, giving a glimpse of the slimy waters, tangled undergrowth, floating logs and tall spectre-like trees. Home of the alligator and deadly malaria; where the white man must give way to his

African brother. Forty-five miles out we took supper at Forest City,

and the brightly-lit up little town

was a decided contrast to the dreary

swamps, and I began to have some hopes for the "future state of the Union." Changed cars at Little Rock for the "Iron Mountain," and came near being "run over" by the emigrants thronging the depot. One energetic female with large bundle seemed bent on preventing me from reaching any car, but by the watchful care of a polite official on the road I managed to reach it in safety.

It is a wonder I did not go into the emigrant car, myself, amid such confusion. At that early hour when those they wished. In the male sex

this would seem to apply, as it is supposed that the men only do the cooking. But a close observer will sometimes admit that the ladies take part in it. I once heard of a party who asked a party of over three-score years how old a lady would become before she would relinquish

the idea of marriage, and the answer

was: "My son, go ask some one older than I." People will marry.

It is necessary that they should. But they should love first. Those who write of love generally treat the subject with too much levity, and associate it with soft glances, moonlight walks and poetry. Love and poetry go hand in hand sometimes,

but poetry is generally left—left away in the background. The young man, when he first gets in love, is a poet in his own conceit. The girl does not get that way. She has a practical idea of love and whether or not she reciprocates the passion of the young fellow who is letting out his soul to her, she will knock all the poetry out of him on the first round.

"With Intent to Deceive."

Malaria Gas is the most deceitful thing on earth. It has no odor, and you do not perceive its presence,

until it has taken hold of you. Fight

its malarious influence with Brown's

Iron Bitters, and you will conquer.

This great medicine gives vigor by enriching the blood and toning the system so as to cast malaria out. Mr.

John Denlinger, Lancaster, Pa., says, "I used Brown's Iron Bitters for malaria

and general debility, and it has done

me great good."

Cleveland's Celibacy.

"I always said Grover Cleveland

would be a bachelor," remarked a gentleman who was conversing with a Journal reporter yesterday morning

while waiting for the train to leave,

"and what always made me so firmly

of that belief was an incident that occurred about thirty-five years ago.

Grover was then a young man.

"I remember one evening that he intended calling upon a young lady friend. Like the young men of the present day he adorned himself in his very best, and then proceeded to the residence of his fair friend. Just as he reached the gate, however, I accosted him and we began conversing upon a business matter which we were both deeply interested in. I never thought to inquire where he was going, so we stood there fully an hour, and at the end of that period

we turned and walked back to his home. We were together very nearly two hours, and as I turned to leave him I asked why he was dressed so unusually nice. "O, dang it!" he exclaimed, "I forgot all about that engagement," and he hurriedly

snatched around for a few minutes and finally said, "Oh, well, why were girls ever invented any way?" I told him then that any fellow who was so thoughtless of such matters would certainly be a bachelor. And now the old boy is president! Well, there goes the train; good-by!"—Cleveland's old friend was gone.

Kentucky Progress.

week as building a flour mill at Carrollton, Ky., should have been at Warsaw, Ky., a mill town near the former place.

About Widows.

[San Francisco Chronicle.]

I have a vague idea that a widow,

to be natural, should always be plump. I can't give my reason for

it. I have long had a conviction that grief over a departed husband is fattening. I know that stage widows are always wan and pale and faint at the sight of any relic of the deceased. But that is a dramatic license and only in comedies

where true love and devotion are made funny, not to say ridiculous,

do they make widows plump. Come to think of it, I don't see why a widow shouldn't be plump. She has nothing to worry about. She is the heroine of one great battle, with a weakened world before her to conquer. I like widows. It always seems to me that a widow is a woman who has got the best of a man.

He may have been a good deal of a man, or very little of a man, but she's got the best of him.

Willacoochee

Is the name of a flourishing village of Coffee county, Georgia, on a line of the Brunswick and Albany railroad.

Mr. D. E. Gaskin, a well known citizen of that village, writes under date of December 22:

SEMI-WEEKLY SOUTH KENTUCKIAN.
CHAS. M. MEACHAM, Editor.
FRIDAY, APRIL 24, 1885.

President Cleveland gave his first public reception at the White House Tuesday night. It was more largely attended than any similar entertainment for years.

Next Monday is Gen. Grant's birthday, and the citizens of Louisville will commemorate the event by holding a public meeting to express sympathy for him in his misfortunes.

The postoffice at Berea, Madison county, was burglarized to the extent of $400 in money and $200 in stamps and money orders, and a gold watch. The safe was entered by boring. A. J. Hanson is the postmaster.

Not long ago the Muhlenberg Echo reported a man as "shot in the corner" and now the Louisville Times has come across a man who was "stabbed in a policy shop." Can any student of anatomy locate the wounds referred to?

The Frankfort Yeoman says that of the State officers and their assistants—twenty three in all—only five are from the Blue-grass counties. It must be borne in mind that these five include three of the eight elective officers, and when to these we add both U. S. Senators, the Speaker of the House, Minister Buck, etc., etc., it looks very much like the Blue-grass has the lion's share of the fat places.

The President appointed Tuesday, Christian M. Seibert, of New York, to be secretary of the United States at Chili, and O. W. Powers to be associated justice of the Supreme Court of Utah. He also appointed the following postmasters: Francis M. Householder, at Noblesville, Ind.; Nelson Bruett, at Jefferson, Wis.; Jas. S. Catherwood, at Hooperton, Ill.; Geo. M. Houston, at Harrisonville, Mo.; and Morman Fisher, at Huntington, Ind.

The amusing discovery has been made that Jas. M. Morgan, of South Carolina, who was last Friday appointed consul at Melbourne, Australia, voted and worked for Blaine during the campaign last year. He was appointed on the recommendation of the South Carolina Senators. It is not known whether or not the President will withdraw the appointment. Dr. W. B. Jefferson, of Todd county, was one of the applicants for the post.

The following appointments have been made by the President:
To be Ministers Resident and Consuls General—Wm. B. Bloxham, Florida, Bolivia.
Bayless W. Hanna, Indiana, Persia.
Walker Fearn, Louisiana, to Roumania, Serbia and Greece.
To be Consuls United States: James Murray, New York, at St. John, New Brunswick.
Boyd Winchester, Kentucky, Nice, France.
Charles B. Kimball, Illinois, Stuttgart, Germany.

Mr. Francis Roark killed on his premises a rare specimen of the feathered tribe Thursday last. He was on ornithologist, "Little Egret Occidentalis," of the order "Heron." There were five in the flock. As they passed over the country some one took them to be white hawks. The specimen captured is about twenty-two inches high, has a straight bill five inches long; its plumage creamy white, tipped with black on the back of the head, wing and tail, leg not as long in proportion to the size of its body as others of the same order. It has a crest on its head, and a pendant like a white chord which trails over its back.—Franklin Favorite.

Gen. Grant.

NEW YORK, April 22.—At 7 o'clock this morning the curtains were opened in General Grant's residence. At 8:20 a. m., Dr. Douglas left the house. He stated that the general had slept through the night without disturbing him once, that he was much improved after his drive yesterday and that he would go out today. As far as can be gleaned from the increased amount of exercise taken by the general the doctor thinks he is gaining in bodily strength. The swelling at the base of the tongue, however, still continues with a little sloughing.

At high noon, exactly midday, General Grant left the house and passed down the steps to the family carriage which was waiting. He lifted his hat in recognition of salutations from a group of watchers across the street. He was followed by his son Ulysses, his wife and Mrs. Jesse Grant. Harrison mounted the box and the party was driven up Fifth avenue and entered the park.

At 4 o'clock this afternoon the general in an overcoat, high hat and neck-scarf, left the house and walked down the steps. Behind him came Col. Grant, who also walked by his side but not touching him. Gen. Grant walked to the corner of sixth street and Madison avenue and then turned and walked back. He used a cane and walked slightly limping, but there was nothing of tottering feebleness, and as he was congratulated during the little walk, he responded with "Thank you," in a voice that was clear and firm. The colonel slightly assisted him in mounting the steps on his return.

The members of the family all had dinner with the General, who seemed very much improved after his drive.

Declined With Thanks.

MR. LAWTON DECLINES THE RUSSIAN MISSION.

WASHINGTON, April 21.—Mr. Lawton has declined the Russian Mission. An intimate friend received a telegram from him to-day requesting him to convey to the president his desire to decline. It is understood that he does this to relieve the president of all embarrassment, and to avoid a possible controversy in the cabinet at next session. When Mr. Lawton came here two weeks ago the friend, who to-day received his message of declination, said to him that St. Petersburg was not a particularly attractive place. He reminded Mr. Lawton that one or two American ministers had frozen to death in that frigid climate. He represented to him that the place was not worth a cent. Lawton replied that he had not come to fight for it, but on the contrary he had come to say to the president that he had come to relieve him from all embarrassment. He said this to the president the next day. The president responded that he proposed to act in accordance with the opinion of his attorney general, to whom the question had been referred. This opinion was favorable to Lawton. It declared that the Andrew Jackson pardon removed Mr. Lawton's political disabilities and that the fourteenth amendment could not and did not restore them. It is believed that Mr. Cleveland would have acted on this decision had Mr. Lawton not declined.

ANOTHER DECLINATION.

Anthony M. Kelly, of Virginia, recently nominated and commissioned United States minister to Italy, will decline the position, not wishing to embarrass the administration by reason of objections that might be offered by the Italian government against him.

NOT NICE ENOUGH.

Mr. Boyd Winchester states that he will not accept the Consulate to Nice, and it is understood that he was written a letter to that effect to be forwarded to Secretary Bayard as soon as his commission arrives. To a reporter who called upon him at the Galt House last night, Mr. Winchester simply said that he had not yet received official notice of his appointment, and that in consequence he had neither accepted nor refused the post. This was all Mr. Winchester would say. It is a fact, however, that he has said to several of his friends that he had never been an applicant for the appointment, and would not accept it. The salary attached to the place is so small that Mr. Winchester would probably be at a loss to know how to live upon it, and for that reason principally he will decline the appointment. It is understood that Mr. Watterson will leave for Washington at once to get Mr. Winchester a new appointment.—Louisville Commercial.

BELLEVIEW LETTER.

Our little town is exceedingly dull at this writing socially, but all business is booming.
Corn planting is numbered with the things of the past, and the farmers are now discussing the poor little two-leaved tobacco plants and wondering whether they will be large enough to plant in May or not.
Miss Joe Cox left several days ago to visit her sister, Mrs. Howe, at Cairo, Ill., from whence they will visit the Exposition together. She anticipated a month's leave of absence from this neighborhood.
Several couples of our young people attended the quarterly meeting at the Methodist church at Montgomery, yesterday and did not return until after night. The quarterly meeting of this district will be held at Shiloh on the first Sunday in May.
Misses Lee Campbell and Lizzie Cox spent a few days the last of the week with Mrs. J. Q. McGehee, at Montgomery.

Our friend, Sam McGehee, who is attending the H. H. S., was at home Saturday shaking hands with his many friends. Major Ferrell informed me not long since that he was making rapid progress with his studies and gaining many friends in the city.

On the evening of the 15th inst., at the request of Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Green a large number of their friends assembled at their residence to spend the evening, which I must say was one of the most pleasantly spent of my life. At an early hour they began dancing, and almost all present participated and seemed to enjoy themselves as much as any young people I ever saw, until 10:30 o'clock when Mr. Green interrupted their dancing for a while by announcing that supper was ready, which was a considerable surprise to the boys to whom the party was given as they had expressed a desire not to put Mrs. Green to that trouble, but I must say I never experienced a more pleasant surprise as she had prepared one of the most delightful suppers that it has been my pleasure to partake of.

After supper was over some time was spent in social chat, when the dancing was resumed until the "wee sma' hours" bade them depart. There were fourteen young ladies present, five of whom were from your city, it is not necessary to say that the stock of boys was complete. The young society people of this community will ever be indebted to Mr. and Mrs. Green for one of the most pleasantly spent evenings of their lives.

Rev. Thos. Harrison, the boy revivalist, has begun a meeting in Louisville.

THE CLOSING CHAPTER.

Marriage of Mr. Irving Cayce to Miss Bobbie Rives.

ED. SOUTH KENTUCKIAN:
It was eleven o'clock when Irving Cayce and I left his house near Harris' bridge, on our way to the residence of Mr. C. Charles Rives, two miles below Lafayette. To be Smith's ponies pulled us in a manner not so rapid as the motions of their owner's tongue, but sufficiently swift for all practical purposes. Just as we approached Lafayette a cow saw us and became frightened. I mention this that it may be understood how seldom the eyes of Lafayette cows see handsome men, though they so frequently focus upon the forms and features of pretty women. Though no steam whistles disturb the quiet of this village and no sound louder than "the cocks shrill clarion" offends the drowsy ears, yet within short distances in all directions from its center may be found ladies whose freshness is only equaled by that of the dew sprinkled daisy and who, for beauty, are unrivaled anywhere in the great world around us. To me, an old bachelor, surrounded by camphor bottles and oil of cloves, with nothing for entertainment save a tooth ache and a tight shoe, it does seem that he who wins a Lafayette girl is greater than he that taketh a city, and more to be envied than the happy father of a large family of infants. Lafayette is a great town. Situated on a gentle elevation five miles from the Hinesley town and Great Southern Narrow Gauge and thirty miles, more or less from anywhere else, it could not be otherwise than a place of "untold delight" and of divers inhabitants. The only trouble about the town is its approach. Too much time is required to get there. We arrived at Mr. Rives' hospitable home at 2:30, which was thirty minutes before the time set for the wedding. Three o'clock Tuesday, April 21st, 1885, was the time set for Irving Cayce and Miss Bobbie L. Rives to be married each to the other. Is there luck in odd numbers? If so, the couple that was married at an odd hour, on an odd day of the week and an odd year in an odd century must be joined for better and not for worse. Preceded by a few friends the bridal couple walked into the parlor at the appointed hour, where they were united in name as they had been in hopes and intentions. The ceremony was short yet beautiful and caused a universal regret that one who could talk so sweetly of marriage as did Mr. Perry should be doomed to the sickening solitude of a single life. Standing off and watching the happy couple receive the congratulations of friends, after God's blessings had been asked upon them and their future, the closing scene in the drama of Richelieu was forcibly suggested. Every one remembers the misfortunes which almost overthrew the old Cardinal and for so long separated De Mauprat from Julie. Well, the ends were shaped by a Divinity, the lovers were restored to each other and gazing upon their joy Richelieu says to the King:
"See, amidst plots and counterplots, midst gain and loss, midst glory and disgrace, how the great stream of human happiness runs on."
"Nay sire, we own it, there's a power above ways the harmonious mystery of the world. Even better than prime ministers."

After short leave-taking a party consisting of the bride and groom, Wheeler Cayce and Miss Rebecca Adams, G. R. Oldham and Miss Ida Southall, Lucian Cayce and Miss Halie Rives and others drove to Mr. Cayce's residence where a delightful supper was spread, a doleful ditty denominated "Sky light in the roof" was sung and Lucian had his shoes blackened under a contract most ruinous to the party who was to furnish the materials. About eleven o'clock the guests dispersed and in bidding Mr. Cayce and his bride good night, I could not restrain my emotion sufficiently to wish them a long life filled with such balm and sunshine as was the weather on their wedding day.

R. W. H.

DIED.

BUTCHER.—At her residence in Graves county, Ky., on the 15th inst., Mrs. Susan E. Butcher, in the 32nd year of her age. Mrs. Butcher was a native of this county and was formerly Miss Carlous. She had been a consistent member of the Baptist Church since girlhood. Mrs. Butcher leaves a husband, three little children and several other relatives to mourn her premature death. We sympathize with them in their sorrow and affliction.

Misses Annie and Allie Bradshaw, daughters of Mr. Ben Bradshaw, of Pembroke, entertained several young ladies from the city last Saturday and Sunday. They were Misses Sophia Rossington, Mamie Rust, Emma Coleman and Henia Stephens. The whole party attended the dedication at Pembroke, Sunday.

The jury in the case of the Commonwealth vs. Champ Grist, for the killing of Sam Winstead last August at Madisonville, after being out from last Saturday morning at 11 o'clock until Monday evening at 4 o'clock, returned a verdict of two years' confinement in the penitentiary. The finding was rather a surprise, as the general belief was that he would be cleared. During the time the jury were consulting one of the number became sick, while another became partially deranged.

Open 8 A. M. to 5 P. M.

The men around the sawmill stood,
With never a thought of harm
While the mill raged up and sawed the wood
And acted like a charm.
There came a burst of thunder sound—
The men oh! where were they?
Within the woods for yards around,
Their bleeding bodies lay.
Up went the mill and roof o'er head
That shelter had afforded.
While scalding steam all round was spread—
The boiler had exploded.

SOCIALITIES.

Dr. T. G. Keen is in the city.
Mrs. Garland Jones, of Pee Dee, was in the city Thursday.

Mr. Gus Slaughter, of Henderson, visited our city last Wednesday.

Mr. R. J. Fuqua, of Lafayette, was in the city yesterday.

Messrs. C. W. Bell and W. C. Hutcherson, of Elkton, Ky., were in the city Tuesday on business.

Miss Frankie Simmons is visiting the family of Mr. Robt. White, of Casky.

Messrs. A. W. Pyle and Clarence Anderson have gone down on Pond River on a fishing tour.

Miss Beulah Settle, of Clarksville, is visiting Mrs. O. D. Thompson, of Fairview.

Mrs. J. J. Chappell is visiting her mother, Mrs. J. O. Cooper, of the city.

Col. Jno. W. McPherson left yesterday to attend the meeting of the Louisville Presbytery at Lagrange, Ky.

Miss Emma Wheeler spent several days in the city this week, the guest of Miss Julia Venable.

Mr. P. G. Jones who has been quite ill in the city, at the residence of Capt. Ben Underwood, returned to her home in Cadiz yesterday.

Mr. Allan Wallis left for Shelbyville yesterday, to attend the meeting of Presbytery of the Northern Presbyterian church.

Miss Mollie Crumbaugh, of Eddyville, left Tuesday for a visit to Frankfort, Ky., after a pleasant visit to Maj. S. R. Crumbaugh's family.

Miss May Ware and Mrs. R. E. McRoberts attended the Ryals-Dickinson wedding at Trenton, yesterday.

Mrs. Mark McCarty and her daughter, Miss Lizzie, and Miss Mary Gunn, passed through the city Tuesday on their way home to Cadiz from St. Louis.

Mr. Urey Woodson, editor of that excellent paper the Owensboro Tri-Weekly Messenger, dropped into the city long enough to shake hands with a few friends, Wednesday.

Prof. Henri Paling and his charming niece, who were in the city the first of the week, have returned to their home in Nashville. Prof. Paling is an accomplished musician and will most likely give a concert in this city at no distant day.

Mr. Albert Robertson, late of Cincinnati, is now connected with the dry goods establishment of Mr. J. Fry, in the capacity of salesman. He is a most energetic salesman and a worthy and deserving young man whom we take pleasure in welcoming to our city.

Market active and firm on all grades except trash Lugs which were a trifle easier.

MARRIED.

RYALS-DICKINSON: At the Baptist church, Trenton, Ky., Thursday, April 23, 1885, Rev. W. H. Ryals, of Trenton, Tenn., to Miss Annie W. Dickinson, daughter of Dr. J. S. Dickinson. There were several couples of attendants, the bridesmaids being Misses Jennie Cabaniss, Lizzie Ware, Nora Garth and Emma Dickinson. Immediately after the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Ryals took the early train for their future home in Trenton, Tenn. The groom is a young Baptist minister. The bride is a most estimable young lady and Mr. Ryals is to be congratulated upon winning so charming a helpmate. The South Kentuckian congratulates them and wished them a long and happy life.

CAYCE-RIVES: At the residence of the bride's father, Mr. Chas. Rives, near Lafayette, at 3 o'clock P. M., April 21, by Rev. H. F. Perry, Mr. Irving J. Cayce to Miss. Robbie L. Rives.

Messrs. Gray & Young, the barbers, have moved their shop down stairs to the room formerly occupied by Mr. J. T. Savage. They have gone to considerable expense to fix up the room in good style and would be pleased to wait on all who may call upon them in their new quarters.

HERE AND THERE.

Howe's sun time is the city standard.

Soda water at Hopper & Son's.

The Casky Creamery began work Wednesday.

New satteens at M. Frankel & Sons 12 1/2, 20 and 25 cents yerd.

We handle all kinds of paper bags and flour sacks.

Bargains that need only be seen to be appreciated at M. Frankel & Sons.
Laces, curtains, curtain nets and curtain poles in abundance, at M. Frankel & Sons.
Wool sacks furnished and wool bought by W. E. Embury. 20 cents for best wool. Address at Bennetts-town, Ky.

M. Frankel & Sons have the largest stock of dress goods in all the new fabrics, latest new colors at very low prices.
Anyone desiring a home-made or Eastern buggy or barouche can secure a bargain by calling at this office.
If you want nice fitting Clothing, good goods at low prices, do not fail to call on M. Frankel & Sons.
If any of our subscribers have a friend to whom they would like to have a sample copy sent, just drop us a postal and we will forward it at once.
Metcalf, Graham & Co., have just received a nice lot of buggies. Anyone wishing to buy would do well to see them.
The "Old Reliable" unlaundried shirts for 75cts, at M. Frankel & Sons, cannot be bought elsewhere for less than $1.00.
Dr. T. T. Eaton had a good attendance at his lecture on "Poor Kin" Tuesday evening and all who heard him were more than pleased with his laughable lecture.
Recommend the SOUTH KENTUCKIAN to your neighbor, if he wants to take a paper that gives him fresh news, and more of it than any paper he can get for the same money.
Mr. Hat Lund, a Swede, of Yonkers, N. Y., arrived this week to settle permanently in this section. Our Swedish colony is increasing. There are now 6 Swedish families settled in Hopkinsville enjoying the respect of all.
Mr. Frank L. Waller has been re-appointed to the position of Steward of the Western Asylum, at this place. Mr. Waller has filled one term with credit to himself and the State, and we congratulate him upon his retention in a position for which he is so well qualified.
Be sure to call at M. Frankel & Sons and look at their elegant line of dress goods at 12 1/2 cents per yard.
The windows to be put in the new Cumberland Presbyterian church will be the finest in this city and possibly the finest in the State. They will cost over $200 each and there will be four of them fifteen feet high and eight feet wide. The glass will be the costliest and handsomest made.
Messrs. Lee Hall & Sons, of Trigg county, make and offer for sale to consumers, some of the best brands of wine to be found anywhere. They cultivate large vineyards and are making arrangements to enter more largely into the business. Our dealers, as well as citizens, would do well to consult them when in need of a genuine article of grape wine.
The police, under the direction of Chief Biggestaff, have finished the work of cleaning and straightening up the city. They have visited every house in the city and had everything put in first-class order in accordance with the requirements of the health ordinance. They have performed this duty well and merited the commendation of all our citizens.
The "Old Reliable" M. Frankel & Sons is the place to buy your spring goods. Their goods are of the latest styles and their prices are the lowest.
Tobacco Leaf: Kendrick, Pettus & Co., have bought the wheat crop of J. J. C. McKnight, of Garrettsburg, Ky., amounting to about 3,000 bushels. It will be brought in on the L. & A. T. R. R. this week. But for this road Mr. McKnight would have carried his wheat to another market, and Clarksville would not have had the opportunity of handling it. Mr. McKnight also gets as much for his wheat at home as he would have gotten had he been forced to haul it elsewhere.
Mr. W. L. Parker and Miss Lee McKinney were married by Judge Winfree Monday. The groom was a widower and the bride, a girl of 18 years, had lived in his family since childhood. He was her guardian and when he applied for license was informed that he would have to have another guardian appointed to give the bride away. He went out and soon returned with a friend, and the requirements of the law having been met, the couple were speedily linked and went on their way rejoicing. They were from the vicinity of Crofton.
As the city ordinance will not allow any goods put on the streets as advertisements, our merchants should use the columns of the SOUTH KENTUCKIAN for this purpose, where great benefit can be realized for a small expenditure. Our circulation is large and increasing, and among a class of people who deal largely. There are several lines of business not represented in our columns, and many of our subscribers don't know whether such branches are in existence or not. Nothing will pay better than a few dollars judiciously expended in advertising.

BLOWN UP!

A SAW-MILL BOILER EXPLODES WITH HORRIBLE RESULTS.

Two Men Dangerously Hurt.

The boiler of McRae & Hanna's saw-mill, at the Hanna place, near Pembroke, exploded Monday about noon and four men were hurt, two of them very seriously and it was at first thought fatally. Quite a number of men were around the mill and it is a miracle almost that more were not hurt. The engine was an old one and had no gauge, so that it is not known how much steam was turned on. Mr. Chas. McRae was running the engine and all at once a fearful explosion occurred. The mill and shed were thrown in every direction and McRae was hurled head over heels twenty feet away, but was not injured much.
THE WOUNDED MEN.
Those who suffered the severest injuries were Messrs. J. W. McClanahan and J. L. Feaganes, both of whom were at the mill on business. Feaganes was standing near and was struck and knocked senseless by some of the timbers. McRae, who had not been injured much, ran to his rescue and was badly scalded in the trying to pull Feaganes out of the escaping steam. Wm. Cason also standing near was considerably scalded, but not seriously hurt. Mr. McClanahan was some fifty yards away, but was very badly injured by some of the falling pieces. His skull was dangerously injured and it was thought at first that he had sustained a fatal fracture, but the reports received from him yesterday were to the effect that he would recover. He is a son-in-law of Dr. J. P. Thomas and is well-known in this city, having been in the drug business here for several years. Besides the wound on his head, Mr. McClanahan had a rib broken and was pretty badly bruised in several places.
Mr. Feaganes was hurt worst of all. His jaw-bone was broken in two places, several teeth were knocked out and he was badly scalded from his waist down, but he is reported out of danger now and will get well. He is a young Virginian who lives with Mr. W. T. Radford. He is unmarried and is a worthy, industrious and most estimable young man. He is still at Mr. Hanna's, being too badly hurt to be moved to his home. Mr. McClanahan was taken home on Tuesday and both of them are now doing well.
The mill was an old concern and is a total wreck. The accident was the result of carelessness, and should be a warning to those who undertake to run mills without an engineer who understands his business.

Dr. Rodman Re-appointed.

Dr. Jas. Rodman has again been re-appointed to the Superintendency of the Western Kentucky Lunatic Asylum, for the four years term beginning to-day. The following article is taken from the Frankfort Yeoman:
"Yesterday morning Governor Knott re-issued a commission to Dr. James Rodman as Superintendent of the Western Lunatic Asylum at Hopkinsville, which without an accident, secures to the State the services of that gentleman for the next four years. Dr. Rodman has held this responsible trust longer than any man who has served the State in a similar capacity, and certainly with as high credit to himself and the people as any other could have done. In 1860, during the administration of the late Governor Magoffin, he was appointed Superintendent of the Institution for the Education and Training of Feeble-Minded Children at this place, and after three years' acceptable service, in which he practically founded this important charity, he was appointed Superintendent of the Western Asylum, where he has remained until the present time, and where we trust that he will remain until in honorable old age he shall seek retirement. He is quite a young man, notwithstanding his long public career, being the youngest but one of the several Rodman brothers of this city, all of whom are active business men.
It has given us pleasure heretofore to speak of the admirable condition in which the Western Asylum has been kept under his administration, and we have also had pleasure in publishing the biennial reports of Legislative committees, in which this establishment has always been commended in the highest terms, and oftentimes cited as one of the best ordered and best managed in the United States.
Dr. Rodman as a surgeon and physician seems to have been peculiarly gifted for this special work, and added to his scientific attainments he has shown an administrative ability at once noticeable and admirable. The financial affairs of the asylum, for every year, have been carefully and wisely managed, so well indeed that from the annual savings most of the many important improvements have been made. The buildings are all models of elegance and convenience, and there is nothing lacking to promote the health, comfort, and happiness of the unfortunate inmates. Lately some detached improvements have been made, where the milder class of patients can be kept without seeing even a suggestion of restraint, and where they will hardly miss their homes.
In this connection we may say that it was at the suggestion of Dr. Rodman that the per capita allowance of $200 was reduced to $165, and the State thus saved a large sum annually, amounting now to more than $300,000.
We heartily approve his re-appointment, and congratulate the Governor upon having made it."
